College of Western Idaho President Bert Glandon to Deliver Mid-Year Address

Glandon to talk about CWI's rapid growth and its continued evolution as a comprehensive community college

College of Western Idaho President Bert Glandon will give the spring Mid-Year College Address to members of CWI's faculty, staff, students and the public.

Monday, Jan. 11, 2010

9 a.m.–11 a.m.

Nampa Civic Center

311 3rd St. S., Nampa

Glandon began his tenure at CWI last summer and has overseen the college's rapid student growth and expansion across the Treasure Valley. Glandon will give an update on the successes of the past semester while looking forward to the opportunities of 2010, including efforts to meet surging demand and plans to increase CWI's accessibility to better serve its students as a 21st century educational resource. CWI is the fastest-growing higher education institution in the state and recently added dozens of faculty and staff to support students in a variety of educational disciplines, from general studies to manufacturing to theatre. The address will focus on the welcoming of new and returning faculty with a strong emphasis on maintaining superior service to its students and the community.

About the College of Western Idaho:

The College of Western Idaho is a comprehensive community college fostering student development academically, as well as occupationally. CWI has seven campus locations throughout Southwest Idaho providing higher education and 21st Century technical skills acquisition. The college is dedicated to improving the community's economic well-being by responding with highly-educated and productive graduates. The foundation for the area's only community college was created by a supermajority of voters in Ada and Canyon counties on May 22, 2007.
